New Perspectives in Austrian Economics and Political Economy of Freedom
April 22 - 24, 2005, Prague

Prague Conference on Political Economy is an international and interdisciplinary gathering of scholars and supporters of the Austrian School of Economics and political economy of freedom. It is an attempt to resurrect the tradition of Austrian economics- and liberty-oriented thinking that thrived in central Europe at the beginning of the 20th century, but sadly disappeared thereafter. By establishing an annual forum for scholars and students to meet and exchange ideas it is hoped to build a solid institutional basis for the advancement of the Austrian research program.

The Conference is taking place in Prague, the capital of Czech Republic. All lectures and proceedings are held at the University of Economics in Prague and at the Liberální institut.

The highlights of the PCPE will be named lectures commemorating the heritage of two towering statures of economics science whose lives are bound with the city of Prague: Franz Cuhel and Friedrich Wieser.

The Cuhel Memorial Lecture will be given by Dr. Jorg Guido Hulsmann, one of the leading misesian theorists, currently a professor at the University of Angers France.

The Wieser Memorial Lecture will be given by Dr. Samuel Bostaph, leading historian of economic thought, a Chairman and Professor at the Economics Department of the University of Dallas, USA.
